Mary O’Hagan has been a mental health service user and has been advisor to the UN and the World Health Organisation on disability issues as they relate to people with mental health issues. As New Zealand Mental Health Commissioner from 2000—2007, Mary held the highest government position by an openly identified mental health service user in the world. This seminar will appeal to lawyers and other stakeholders with a keen interest in mental health and disability law and human rights.
